

I even got to visit General Douglas MacArthur on the island of Corregidor at the mouth of Manila Bay. Pictured with me here is long time friend, Jonathan Pascual who made the tour with me. I have made a life study of The General and to visit his hold-out in Corregidor was the fulfillment of a long desire. Unless you have studied this enthralling period of history you may not appreciate the courage and stamina involved in this blip of American history. The island has guns which shot thousand pound shells 27 miles to ships in the bay and fortifications on the mainland. Notice the face at the exit of this huge mortar displayed on the island. Incidentally, the book that I wrote paralleling the life of MacArthur with the life of our Lord Jesus Christ, Parallel Conquerors is being printed as you read this and will be available for purchase in February from European Missionary Press at <http://empgermany.com/?q=catalog> along with my other recent books.

Jonathan and his family are also in this photo in their funny looking (to Americans) vehicle.

We rode in these funny vehicles.

We saw strange sights. This is a Filipino hitchhiker.

We ate strange things.

Mary ate fresh crab on the beach with her brother James.

And Mary's family reunion was the greatest of all. They sure have changed from 16 years ago.

The whole family is Christian and all of our activities with them were wholesome and righteous. We sang Christian songs and worshipped in church together.

We fellowshipped and had fun as Christians should.

Her grandmother (80) is a born again Christian and testified that her parents were born again Christians. This makes Mary a fourth generation Christian. Gramma is here enjoying some of the grandkids and great grandkids.

And Mary's father is to be praised for his courage and faith for making a painful but correct decision in an extremely difficult time of life. (Read Fragments of Faith). Thanks to all who gave to, and prayed for this trip and may the good Lord richly bless you. We are back in Romania safe and sound and continuing on with the ministry here.

Preaching the gospel around the world
Gerald Sutek and the SWAT TEAM INTERNATIONAL.
Matthew 28:19, 20